

“Wind. Feels Good.”

July 2008

AllpakTrojan is now partnering with Renewable Choice Energy to help support wind power! This is an excellent addition to the many areas that AllpakTrojan works on to stay a leader in the printing and packaging industry’s efforts to be sustainable.

We still purchase our electricity from Puget Sound, but by paying a little extra, we are also purchasing renewable energy credits (RECs) to ensure that clean wind energy is being generated and put back on the national power grid.

Our purchase of RECs has an impact that is similar to:

- Planting 1,467 trees or
- Not driving 363,802 miles a year

Renewable Choice Energy is a leading provider of renewable energy and carbon offsets for companies, as well as individuals. Renewable Choice partners with renewable energy producers like those who produce wind power.

What does this mean to you the customer?

AllpakTrojan now has the ability to promote on your commercial and packaging work that it is made in a facility that supports the generation of renewable energy. As an AllpakTrojan customer you now have the opportunity to have this Renewable Choice promotional mark printed on your jobs.

This communicates a strong message that you as a company are willing to take action and partner with other companies to show your concern and support for the environment. There is no cost to you to have this logo added to your material, and will differentiate you from the competition.

We look forward to speaking with you more about the AllpakTrojan way of printing, and how it sets us apart from others while making our world a cleaner place to live. Please visit www.allpaktrojan.com or www.renewablechoice.com to find out how you too can help!
